

Book Order Form — Author Roseanne Thong

Tummy Girl! illustrated by Sam Williams (Ages 3-7)

From wobbly first steps to romping in the rain, this vibrant book captures the precious early years of a child's life.

*Once there was a tummy twirl...
A full-of-warm-milk yummy girl.
A Round-and-giggly tummy girl,
Who loved to cuddle up and curl.*

Gai See: What You Can See in Chinatown, illustrated by Yangsook Choi (Ages 4-9)

Two children discover a world of wonderful sights, smells, tastes, sounds and tactile experiences while shopping in a Chinatown street market or gai see.

The Wishing Tree, illustrated by Connie McLennan (Ages 5-11) 2006 Skipping Stones Award Winner for Multicultural Understanding

Every Lunar New Year, Ming and his Grandmother visited the Wishing Tree, and Ming's wish always seemed to come true. But one year — when Ming made the most important wish of his life — the tree let him down. A unique Chinese tradition that will appeal to all kids who love making wishes.

Round is a Mooncake: A Book of Shapes, illustrated by Grace Lin (Ages 3-7) 2000 SCMP Children's Book Pick of the Year First in the series

A child's urban neighborhood becomes a discovery ground of things round, square and rectangular: round rice bowls and goldfish bowls, square pizza boxes and name chops, rectangular ink stones and mobile phones. Bright whimsical art accompanies the narrative rhyme and glossary.

Red is a Dragon: A Book of Colors, illustrated by Grace Lin (Ages 3-7) 2002 Best Children's Book Award, University of Wisconsin Cooperative Children's Book Center Second in the series

In this lively concept book, a little girl discovers a rainbow of colors in the world around her. Red is a dragon in the Chinese New Year parade, green are the vegetables in her garden and white are dumplings and chopsticks. Rhyming text and an informative glossary.

One is a Drummer: A Book of Numbers, illustrated by Grace Lin (Ages 3-7) Third in the series

The world around us is filled with things to count! Three are the dim sum carts filled with yummy treats, four are mahjong players and eight are the candles on a birthday cake. Many of the objects are Asian in origin, but all have universal appeal.

Ten Friendly Fireflies, illustrated by Amy Schimler (Ages 3-5)

Ten twinkling fireflies lighting up the night sky looking for friends to play! Count from one to ten as a new light appears with every turn of the page.

Wish, illustrated by Elisa Kleven (Ages 4-9)

*How in the world do you make a wish and hope that it comes true?
How in the world do you make a wish? I'll tell you what we do!*

If you love making wishes, you'll love learning about wishing traditions practiced all over the world – from Asia, Africa, Australia, Europe, Central and South America, to our own USA! Written in rhyme and prose, with detailed explanations on each page.
